HIS DESCENDANTS GATHER TO HONOUR HIM

ON AUSTRALIA DAY, 1968, think forward, but think back too — to January 26, 1788, and the coming of the First Fleet to a harbour, now Sydney.

Not much of a start for a nation, really: a convict settlement at the edge of nowhere, in a land where no crops grow, no beasts grazed, no buildings stood.

The Kables' invite 'on card.

from Theford, an English village. Convicted of burglary, he was sentenced to death, but this was commuted to 14 years transportation.

REGISTRATION for NATIONAL SERVICE

Doctor did not check gas tubes, inquest told

An anaesthetist said yesterday she did not check gas tubes leading to a machine before she used it to give a general anaesthetic to a nine-year-old boy who later died.

Interested Sydney (for whom this city is named) interested himself in the case, ordering that Kable should sail in the same fleet as Susannah and the child. Sympathetic members of the public took up a subscription for them, raising £20, which was spent on goods.
